

POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

The Man from Mars, who has kicked the spots out of normal routine in nearly every other phase of human activity, now threatens to revolutionize the campaign business in California during this hectic year of political endeavor.

Gone — at least "for the duration" — is the hurdy-gurdy era of political campaigning, when the candidate swept into town with an automobile caravan, loaded with press agents, managers and visiting celebrities.

The boys just won't have the tires for such triumphant tours!

Gone, too, until the Rising Sun has set, are the big political rallies, the great mass meetings and all the other colorful settings of old-time campaigning.

While air raids threaten, Uncle Sam just doesn't want big public assemblages in California cities!

And as for torch-light parades, sky-writing and all the other more flamboyant artifices of the art of politics, they ended with Pearl Harbor. The nearest aid raid warden would turn in a double alarm at the first outbreak of such Fourth of July campaigning.

Practically, the new wartime restrictions on political campaigning will help some candidates and greatly impair the chances of others.

The candidate with "newspaper support" will have a tremendous advantage, particularly if he has the support of country papers or district papers which do not have to devote too much of their space to war news.

Likewise the candidate with "a good radio personality" who can get his message over via the air waves, will be aided, provided drastic restrictions are not placed on radio broadcasts between now and election day.

But the candidate who has depended largely on "personal vote-getting," and the candidate who has prided himself on his oratorical abilities and his power to sway people assembled to hear him, will have to learn new tricks or cash in his checks. The opportunities for personal campaigning just won't be available.

Curiously enough, while the war situation is supposed to be an aid to most incumbents, Governor Olson will probably suffer seriously by reason of it. The Governor has less newspaper support than any other state executive in many years; in addition, he has never mastered the art of radio presentation. A good-looking candidate, he has largely depended on "personal appearances" and organization politics.

Republican prospects for Governor, on the other hand, will likely profit by the changed situation. Attorney General Earl Warren, for example, is an excellent campaigner on the radio, while Justus Craemer, a past president of the California Newspaper Publishers association, would probably have better newspaper support than any other candidate on the list.

In politics, as in business,

"National Defense" Theme of Old Settlers' Day, 21st

Plans for the 48th observance of Old Settlers' Day on Saturday, Feb. 21 are taking shape under the direction of John Breeding, general chairman; Kenneth Dwelley, chairman of the stock show; Dr. W. I. Merrill, speaker committee and C. P. Klassen, chairman of the parade and music.

The theme for the day will be "National Defense and Agriculture."

This year there will be no morning program for the public, nor any cafeteria dinner, as the committees and the Chamber of Commerce found people generally too busy with various civilian defense activities, to warrant an all day celebration.

The stock and poultry exhibits will be placed and judged between 10 and 12 a. m. so that when visitors come for the afternoon the awards will have been made.

There will be four competing schools in the show as stated by Mr. Dwelley, Los Gatos, Morgan Hill, Centerville and Campbell. The list of entries will be closed next week Thursday.

From the Campbell chapter of the Future Farmers there will be entered over 30 head of hogs, 75 poultry, some 40 rabbits, 8 veal calves and 8 heifers and cows.

The exhibits will be more numerous this year, and new features will be the entries of rabbits and a display of farm mechanics.

The boys have been making more coops and pens to care for the expanding program.

Details of the afternoon program which will open with a parade and music will appear next week.

In the evening there will be a play put on by The Footlighters for the benefit of the Chamber of Commerce.

Hi-Y Boys Will Deliver House Number Cards

The Campbell Hi-Y boys have been assigned the task of delivering cards to householders in the part of town North of Campbell avenue, notifying them of the new house numbers which were assigned in the recent complete revision made by the Chamber of Commerce at the request of the public utilities serving Campbell.

The boys will also have numbers for sale to replace present ones if the owner desires, and will put them up. They will sell for 10 cents each or 3 for 25 cents.

The boys will be at work this week, especially Saturday.

Hereafter the public utilities will use the revised numbering whenever needed to designate places.

war may change the whole picture. Watch the boys who can adapt themselves to a changed situation!

"Hawaii" to be Theme of Club Meeting Monday

"Hawaii" will be the theme of the day at the Monday, Feb. 16 meeting of the Country Woman's club.

Mrs. Charles Simonds will speak on Maui—the Valley Isle. Mrs. Simonds and her husband spent two months in the Hawaiian Islands last summer. Most of that time was spent on the seldom visited and beautiful island of Maui.

Mrs. Raymond Bishop, who lived on the Island of Kauai will show Hawaiian objects of interest.

Also on the program will be a demonstration of native dances by Claudia Kratz of San Jose.

Miss Helen Stray is program chairman and will introduce the topic. She will be assisted by Mesdames Bernard Watson, Ernest Fahler, B. E. Walton, E. J. Bohnett, Charles Simonds and Bertha Barron.

Mrs. G. E. Jeffers will preside at the business meeting at 2:30. This meeting will honor the birthday of the club which was organized in 1905. Each member is to donate a gift which she has earned.

School Receives Money For Maintenance

Superintendent Ira R. Abbott has received confirmation that the Campbell Union Grammar school district will receive $1500 from the Federal Works agency for maintenance and operation because of the increased attendance due to the war.

An additional sum asked for to finance a new class room was not granted.

The new wing which has been under construction for some time will be occupied next week, as two rooms are completed. The third, partly finished, will have to await the next year's budget.

Even this will not completely solve the over crowding, as classes will still have to be held outside the regular classrooms.

Since the beginning of the new semester 25 new students have been enrolled bringing the total over 980.

Local People Entertain Soldiers

Tuesday evening a group from Campbell, under the direction of Mrs. Ira Grim, entertained about 150 soldiers at a convalescent hospital at the Church of Five Wounds in San Jose. The singing, jokes and other entertainment was well liked and the group was invited to make a return engagement.

Those in the group were Mr. and Mrs. Ira Grim and Mary Alice Grim, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Pray, Jane Parr, Manuel Vierra, Mrs. Shad and Paul Becker.

Holt Boy Loses Eye In Accident

A very tragic accident occurred Wednesday afternoon to a young Holt boy, resident of Kennedy avenue, when he was hit in the eye with a double pointed brad, hurled from a sling shot by another boy.

He was taken to the hospital and this morning the eye was removed, as it was too shattered to try to save. We were unable to learn the youths name before going to press.

Walter Bachradt Is Guest Speaker At Kiwanis Meeting

The young couple had both been majoring in music at San Jose State college, but Van Rossen entered the employ of the Harvill Aircraft Die Casting corporation. The new home will be established in Los Angeles.

Following a rehearsal of "The Whole Town's Talking" Monday evening, the cast of the play gathered at the Robert Weaver home for refreshments.

Comedy Will be Presented On Old Settlers' Day

As a fitting climax to a day of wholesome entertainment on Saturday evening, Feb. 21, The Footlighters will present a three act comedy "The Whole Town's Talking" by John Emerson and Anita Loos at the high school auditorium, starting at 8 o'clock.

In the leading roles of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Simmons are Paul Becker and Mrs. Howard Church. Their daughter, Ethel, is played by Ida Levenberg, and her fiancé, Chester Binney, is played by Kenneth McDonnell.

Father starts the whole town talking when he tries to help his future son-in-law become a regular Don Juan to impress Ethel. The situations arising from his scheme involve a glamorous movie actress, Betty Gable (Laverna Hodges), and her director, Donald Swift (Milton Herold), and a Chicago young blood, Roger Shields (Ellis Crane), are highly amusing, and create many hilarious moments.

In the supporting rôles are Annie, the maid, Edith Morley; Sadie Bloom, a dancing teacher, Merle Knappen; a taxi driver, Bud Levenberg; and Ethel's friends, Sally and Lila, Florence Smith and Martha Parr.

Directing the play is Dean Chamberlin assisted by Robert Weaver.

Lincoln's Voice Down the Ages

President Lincoln, affectionately dubbed "Father Abraham" by the rank and file of his soldiers, always spoke to them in a spirit of comradeship when he visited their camps. His speeches and writings of eighty years ago seem like messages to the indomitable men of our Army and the people of America today.

On a sultry August day, 1864, addressing the 166th Ohio Regiment, he declared: "I always feel inclined, when I happen to say anything to soldiers, to impress upon them the importance of success in this contest. It is not merely for today but for all time to come that we should perpetuate for our children's children that great and free government which we have enjoyed all our lives. . . . Still, let us not be over sanguine of a speedy, final triumph. Let us be quite sober. Let us diligently apply the means, never doubting that a just God, in His own good time, will give us the rightful result."

He denied no citizen the right to express an opposing opinion, but he called upon all factions to stand for the country's defenders. Answering serenaders from the White House portico November 10, 1864, he said: "May I ask those who have not differed with me, to join with me in this same spirit towards those who have? And now let me close by asking three hearty cheers for our brave soldiers and seamen, and their gallant and skilful commanders."

Lincoln did not possess the polish of formal society, but no President has paid a more graceful compliment to the work of women in war time. In an address March 18, 1864, he praised their efforts: "I am not accustomed to the language of eulogy. I have never studied the art of paying compliments to women. But I must say, that if all that has been said by orators and poets since the creation of the world in praise of women were applied to the women of America, it would not do them justice for their conduct during this war. I will close by saying, God bless the women of America!"

How Lincoln would deal with isolationists and agitators is hinted in the following quotation from Carl Sandburg's biography, "The War Years":

"Pointing to the death penalty as a requisite of military organization, he (President Lincoln) inquired: 'Must I shoot a simple-minded soldier who deserts, while I must not touch a hair of a wily agitator who induces him to desert? This is none the less injurious when effected by getting a father, or brother or a friend into a public meeting, and there working upon his feelings till he is persuaded to write the soldier boy that he is fighting in a bad cause, for a wicked administration of a contemptible government, too weak to arrest and punish him if he shall desert. I think that, in such a case, to silence the agitator and save the boy is not only constitutional, but withal a great mercy.'"

Ten Million Valentines

Next Saturday, Feb. 14 is St. Valentine's Day and next Saturday is also the first of three days in which millions of Americans are to register under the new draft law.

And so by nightfall on St. Valentine's Day there will be enough Valentines to Freedom to bury the Statue of Liberty up to her ears—each the signed pledge of an American to defend his nation with his life. Some pledges will be signed by boys of 18—proud to tell the world they are men who can fight America's enemies face to face.

And some will be signed by men of 44, men running a bit to waistline budes and baldness and gray at the temples—but belligerently positive they can clean up anything the Axis can send at them on the sea, in the air or on wheels.

By nightfall Monday the pledges will all be in—sworn fealty of the mightiest host of fighting men in history: ten million valentines to the spirit of the lady who holds aloft the lamp of freedom for America and for men of good will in all the troubled world.

Material Waste Must Stop

Retail merchants are being called upon to take a leading part in the campaign against waste of essential materials.

At the moment, principal attention is being given to conserving rubber and paper. Merchants are asked to use a minimum of paper in wrapping parcels, and to use none at all for packaged goods. It is recommended that the number of store deliveries be reduced whenever possible.

The consumer should understand what is being done, and cooperate. Don't ask to have your purchases wrapped or put in bags if you can conveniently carry them as they are. Take your purchases home yourself, instead of asking for delivery service, whenever you can. Save boxes and paper of all kinds—they can be reclaimed and put to further use.

All stores are taking active part in these "prevent needless waste" endeavors. Your cooperation will enable them to give you the best possible service consistent with current conditions. And your cooperation will help conserve materials which are vitally needed in defense work.

Baseball Players Start Warm Ups

If you happen to look out on the baseball diamond one of these sunny afternoons you will find Campbell high's future hickory wielders warming up for the 1942 season.

Coach Steve Casaleggio again takes over the red and blue clad spikers as they prepare to get in condition for the season. There will be four home games for the interest of baseball fans.

Many veteran players are returning to the lineup from last years team, which had a mediocre season. Casaleggio looks forward to a very good season due to the return of these veterans. There are a few spots that will have to be filled in by greenhorns, but there are already some good prospects among them.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"Dragon Seed" by Pearl S. Buck.

It is said that the dragon, to the Chinese, is not an evil creature. Tradition and history tell the significance of the dragon and its meaning to the Chinese. It is believed to be a god and a friend of men who worship him. He "holds in his power prosperity and peace." He rules the waters and the winds and sends the rains. "In the Hsia dynasty two dragons fought an important and great duel until both disappeared, leaving only a fertile foam from which were born the descendants of the dynasty. And ever after the dragons came to be looked upon as the ancestors of a race of heroes."

"Dragon Seed" is a novel of China—a story about this "race of heroes." In this book the author tells of the people who plant the rice fields, the plain people that she wrote about in her book "The Good Earth." The locale of the story is outside the walls of the great city of Nanking as well as inside the walls. The author lived in this city for seventeen years, therefore is able to put lively truths into what she writes. The time of action is recent. Yes, it is a story about the Chinese and Japanese war. In this book is described vividly the devastation of the great city of Nanking, the ruling of the Chinese by the Japanese after taking the city. But, and this is the most powerful element of the book, the author makes evident the spirit of the ruled peoples, the Chinese, who cannot be conquered. The Guerrillas, the young men and women, the older members of the older families, all of the people in general, Pearl Buck paints them as they are striving to live their lives rationally though their world is at war.

At the very heart of the story there are the deep and powerful contemplations of a man, a common man, about the war and those who make it. These contemplations he has collected and nurtured through his constant and loving association with the good soil, the skies and the waters and all that combine to make possible man's happy existence here on earth.

This book will live!

Working with the girls is their club advisor, Mrs. A. G. Applegarth.

The main duties of the club members are sewing for the Red Cross, planting a defense garden, working on various church and service club committees for defense and buying defense stamps.

The San Jose chapter is giving a Red Cross benefit dance on Feb. 13 at the De Anza hotel. Members of the group are very anxious that as many people as possible will attend this dance and thereby further the good work of the Red Cross.

The Cambrian chapter is giving a box social on Saturday, Feb. 21 at the Cambrian school. The funds are to be used for defense purposes.

Lincoln Day Dinner Postponed

J. Wayne Hutchins, chairman of the Santa Clara County Republican Lincoln Day dinner committee, has announced that all members of the committee felt that due to existing conditions the annual dinner will not be held this year.

The affair which as the name implies is held on Lincoln's birthday and is a get-together of Republicans and Democrats for the benefit of Republican party.

The committee sincerely suggests that followers of the Lincoln Day dinner buy defense stamps this year in its place.

Student First Aid Classes Begin Second Period

Student first aid classes at Campbell Union High school, with Harold Drummond as advisor, have reached their mid-year period. A test covering most of the book was taken Wednesday.

The class has been studying the essentials of first aid, notably the pressure points to stop arterial bleeding and artificial respiration. Although these classes were started because of the war situation, the information acquired from them will be useful to all members in their future life.

Mr. Drummond is the biology and physical education teacher at the high school and has had much experience in this line.

New student classes will be started Feb. 23 and 24, according to W. H. Van Dyke, principal.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR
Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

Now that we are at war to protect our democracy from ruthless foreign enemies which would destroy it; now that the American boys are offering up their lives in defense of our liberties; now that we are all preparing to sweat and sacrifice to pay for the costliest and probably the bloodiest war in our national history—perhaps it is time to examine into our stewardship as citizens of the world's greatest democracy and face the fact that we have been sadly derelict in recent years in defending our American way of life from attack here at home!

If confession is good for the soul, then we, the American people, should get down on our knees and confess that we have been but poor guardians of our democracy for years past. For we have had so little faith in the system we live by that we have permitted ambitious political overlords, radical crackpots and crafty enemies within our gates to half-convince us that our American system of private enterprise, the cornerstone of our democracy, is out-moded and ready to be tossed into the junkyard.

The saboteurs whose practice it is to "divide and destroy" have been hard at work in our America. And to our shame it must be admitted that they found fertile ground in which to operate. But America now, under the shocking impact of war, is coming awake and it is time to make honest, fearless appraisal of how far we have drifted from the standards of sound Americanism.

Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade summed up the case brilliantly in a recent address on "Newspapers In A Democracy." And because the freedom of the press is one of our great fundamental freedoms—a freedom which has come under covert attack with increasing frequency in recent years—we believe some of Mr. Patterson's remarks are worthy of careful consideration.

Said Editor Patterson: "Newspapers and all enterprise face a common enemy. There is a school for thought in this country which has won a good many millions of adherents in late years. This school holds that the social and economic system, under which we grew great, is worn out, that a new era is upon us, that men and businesses must be hedged about with regulations and edicts and verboten signs. This school teaches that in order to perpetuate this nation, men and business must be made subservient to an all-powerful bureaucracy which will tell them what to do, how to do it, and when to do it. This bureaucracy will regulate, if it has its ultimate way, every thing from the color of your toothbrush handle to what products and how much of them a company may manufacture.

"Now the people who are the leaders of this school of thought do not openly declare their intentions so that the man in the street fully understands their objectives. These bureaucratic people know

Garden Forum Luncheon, Feb. 21

The San Jose Garden Forum will present another colorful and educational program at the luncheon meeting at the Sainte Claire hotel in San Jose on Saturday, Feb. 21 from 12:30 to 4 p. m.

Mrs. Howard Thomas of San Francisco, professional landscape gardener, writer and lecturer, will be guest speaker of the day. Mrs. Thomas has had a long and illustrious career in gardening and flower shows. Her work in this field includes planning and supervision of the gardens surrounding the Woman's club building and the flower arrangements for the club at the Golden Gate International Exposition in 1940. She has contributed largely to the success of many leading garden shows and has contributed articles to leading magazines of the country. She is a member of the California Horticultural Society, past president and horticultural advisor of the Forest Hills Garden club in San Francisco and an authority on Hawaiian floriculture. She returned from Honolulu shortly before the Pearl Harbor attack, having been called there to judge the floral arrangements at the Maui Fair. Her talk will be followed by technicolor movies of beautiful Hawaiian gardens. There will be Hawaiian music and a display of tropical blooms.

Reservations must be made in advance through patrons and hostesses of the day or by telephoning Ballard 8500 extension 203.

Whey From Cheese

Chemists have discovered that the whey left over from cheese making contains blood-coagulating properties and the female hormone, an important ingredient in canned soups and many prepared foods.

that the only way in which you can regiment a nation is first to regiment its mind. They have already persuaded a lot of people that our system of free enterprise and competitive business and unlimited opportunity for the individual just can't be made to work. These bureaucratic bosses are trying to plant the seeds of suspicion and distrust in the minds of newspaper readers, so that if and when the time comes, they will be justified in taking over and destroying, either by regimentation or economic pressure, free newspapers, and after that, the free enterprise which the newspaper protects.

"Democracy is immeasurably more than a form of government. Democracy is a spirit. Democracy provides an atmosphere in which man can be somebody and go somewhere under his own power. But I say that if a man is to continue to breathe in the atmosphere which democracy provides, if under its provisions he is to continue to express himself in meaningful terms of utility and beauty, he must come to regard it as a continuing, cooperative effort in human society. In short, he must put into the field of democracy, in sacrifice and devotion, as much as he takes out in privilege."

Editor Patterson is one hundred per cent right. And it's time for each and every one of us to give a better account of ourselves as citizens. It would be tragic, indeed, if we won our war abroad and lost our liberty at home.

ALARMS BLACKOUTS RESTRICTIONS

Ask at any P. G. & E. office for our handbook of suggestions on how to prepare your home for a Blackout.

You are spending much more time at home. There is more neighborliness too. Living rooms and playrooms have become nightly centers for quiet, comforting entertainment.

Is your living room and playroom prepared for this purpose with adequate and proper lighting? Is the light sufficient and properly diffused for easy seeing? Does your present lighting do all it can to make rooms more cheerful, attractive and comfortable?

Good lighting should serve to ease eye-tasks as well as enhance the beauty or eye-appeal of your home furnishings. Mere brilliance of light is hard on the eyes and causes ugly shadows in a room. Good light is light that is well diffused, soft, glareless and easy on the eyes.

A good selection of efficient and attractive lamps and fixtures is still available. You will have no trouble choosing the styles you will like. They are reasonably priced too! Start enjoying good lighting on the home front tonight.
